Description:

Trust is a legal entity in which you can place certain assets to accomplish specific goals. There are many different types of trusts, each used for different purpose. Special Needs Trust – created to help provide care for chronically disabled individuals (children, parents, siblings). Can be created during lifetime or at death.

Over the years, our legal practice has continued to rapidly expand into several additional complex and sophisticated areas in which we had advised many clients, including, but not limited to: international tax and wealth preservation planning; family business succession planning; tax and estate controversies; corporate and partnership business structuring; marital planning; and income tax planning for closely held businesses and real estate clients.

At our company our attorneys focus their practice on estates and trusts administration, domestic and international estate planning sophisticated domestic and international taxation, and asset preservation counsel to CEOs of major corporations, ultra-high net worth individuals, multinational businesses, and charitable organizations.
